Slay your way through the game dungeon with your modern era folk hero... ----- o Enjoy a game with even the balance of both action and strategy o Participate in 5 different types of quests o Choose the gender, name and appearance of your character o 2 weapons, 3 attachments, 2 magic...

----- With the NEW hero being added in this game, you can definitely relax while fighting off monsters. Combat system is as simple as ABCD: A: Attack B: Block C: Counter D: Dodge There are 13 basic moves to choose from. And each move has 3 levels, where the top level is called 'EX'. Each weapon's EX has its own move, some even have 2 moves for EX, so be aware of that. The 'EX' moves are almost all the same, but each 'EX' move has a unique ability that makes it more powerful in certain situations. An example of this would be that the 'Crouching' move is very useful to use when you are running away from an enemy, while the 'Rising' move is good for when your enemy is close. Being aware of each move's EX can make sure that your battle becomes over faster, but don't forget to consider the situation in a proper fight. As for magic, only 'Fireball' is available for all characters. Characters can also equip up to 8 items from the 3 item slots.

Weapons: *Universal item (ATTACHMENT): Effective against all types of enemies *Weapon item (ATTACHMENT): When combined with a sword *Item item (ATTACHMENT): Item that protects your character when equipped Magic: *Fireball: Explosion attack.

----- Each stage has a room in the beginning where your character's sleeping place is located. Upon entering this room, a text will appear on the floor which will tell you what to do next. After finishing the quest, you will be prompted to continue your journey, but rest assured that you can continue through the different stages again without it affecting your progress. REWARDS: You are currently allowed to sleep in your character's sleeping place, but won't receive any rewards from this. If you are actively fighting and completing quests, you will be given rewards if you reached the stage where you can. After the game update, if c9d1549cdd

Cross Wind Airlines Cross Wind Airlines LLC (doing business as Cross Wind Airlines) was a short-lived airline headquartered in Bolivar, Missouri that was unable to secure the equipment to fly and begin operations. Its primary base was the Mid-America St. Louis Airport. History The airline was formed by the members of the Warfield family of Bolivar, Missouri, who also own a firm known as Tail Transfer. Cross Wind Airlines planned to operate a fractional ownership program, based on a ready-engine option called SkyRAIL, until early August 2006 when it filed for bankruptcy and, according to former controller Joseph Reinhardt, was trying to raise around $20 million in start-up funding. Cross Wind Airlines, Inc. filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection on August 7, 2006. On August 8, 2006, the company shut down all flights. On the same day, SkyRAIL's owner, Richard Warfield, was removed from his company's board of directors and replaced by Joseph I. Reinhardt. On September 6, 2006, the company had over $7.8 million dollars in cash on hand. Reinhardt pledged a $3 million infusion of new capital on September 11, 2006 and on September 13, 2006, bankruptcy-court documents show that there was $400,000, a plot of undeveloped land, containers and materials as collateral. Although the airline hoped to soon resume operations, they were unable to do so, due to a variety of problems, including insufficient capital (as $1 million in start-up funding was unavailable by August 8, 2006), a lack of a controlling shareholder with a line of credit, a lack of pilots who could fly the new plane under warranty and a lack of equipment for the new larger plane. On July 22, 2007, the airline had its operating certificate to fly revoked because it failed to file the required maintenance logs. The FAA then communicated directly with the community and said that "It is not in their best interest to have commercial air traffic operation at MSTL at this time and that the lack of available aircraft and parts will continue to delay full service
