Two triads are one quadrilateral. Three triads are one large (right) triangle. This seemed obvious, a matter of common sense. Not so. No mathematical principle is sufficient to explain the natural and empirical observation that for three bodies in motion the number of groupings that occur is either 1, 2, or 3. The number of groupings of 3 bodies in motion is $3x + 3x + 3x = 21/2$. But, for bodies in motion, only one of 21/2 possible groupings is correct. This fact is, at the risk of grandiloquence, a principle of trivalence.

Noiseware_5_Professional_5_0_2.M. Worsley Baxter M.Worsley Baxter (October 8, 1763 – October 24, 1837) was an officer in the U.S. Army, a member of the 1st U.S. Dragoons, and a politician and planter in Florida. Baxter's father, Benjamin Baxter, was one of Florida's first settlers; his mother, Sarah Williston Baxter, was a daughter of Revolutionary War-era Captain Joseph Williston of Georgia. Baxter's military career included service in the Revolutionary War, the American Revolution, and the War of 1812. Baxter arrived in Florida in 1822 and became a planter; he arrived in the United States while serving as a volunteer with the British Legion in the Siege of Charleston (1780–82). He helped lead the first land grant in Florida to Colonel Henry Lee (1746–1831), and participated in the expedition to establish Fort Matanzas in 1822, returning to Georgia after the Spanish–American War ended in 1821. Baxter's family left Florida in 1824, moving to Missouri and settling near the town of Chillicothe, after which Baxter returned to Florida, settling near Collins, Florida. In 1828 Baxter's first wife, Mary, died and he married Ann Monroe Callahan (1782–1830). In 1837 Baxter visited Polk County, and during his travels he was killed by Seminoles. Baxter County, Florida is named after Baxter.
