Spicy Turkey only takes about 10 minutes to assemble, but the flavor develops over a 30-40 minute simmering time, so don't rush. To make it kid friendly, I serve it as patties. You can cut the meat into slightly larger patties and serve in a bun, or make it into a meatball and serve in a roll. We made this a bit spicier because we like spicy food, but you can make it mild

Gastrointestinal stromal tumor (GIST) with metastases and the newly discovered T-cells: Light touch, hollow tubes, and movement of cells through gaps. Gastrointestinal stromal tumors are the most common mesenchymal soft tissue tumors of the digestive tract. Most patients have smooth muscle tumors. T-cadherin is a marker for T-cells. Previous studies in the filamin A mutant (FLNA(-/-)) mouse model showed that T-cells infiltrate tumors in approximately half of the small and a third of the large intestine. We evaluated whether these infiltrating cells are migratory and the process through which they arrive in metastasizing tumors. Hematoxylin-eosin and immunohistochemical staining for the T-cell surface antigen CD3, the lymph node migration marker L-selectin, the chemokine receptor CXCR3, and an activated T-cell marker were performed in intestinal and liver metastases from adult FLNA(-/-) and wild-type mice. The mouse model and the examination of specimens were approved by the Animal Care and Use Committee of Thomas Jefferson University. In all cases, T-cells and L-selectin were in the tumor stroma, but in contact with metastatic cells. These T-cells were CD3(+), CD4(-), and CD8(+). Ultrastructurally, these cells had a monocytoid morphology and T-cell markers. Ultrastructural analysis and deconvolution showed that L-selectin was expressed at the cell surface of T-cells. Activated T-cells, lymph node efferent lymphatic vessels,
