Validity of the SAFE program: an examination of the frequency and type of adverse drug events and reported drug-related problems. To evaluate the effects of the Singapore Anti-Falsification Drug Program (SAFE) on the occurrence of adverse drug events (ADEs) and drug-related problems (DRPs) in hospitalized patients. A retrospective chart review of patients admitted to Singapore General Hospital and National University Hospital from the SAFE program's inception date to December 31, 2004. Overall, 92.0% of patients experienced at least 1 ADE, and 7.3% experienced at least 1 DRP. The annual ADE rate and DRP rate decreased, and the annual number of ADEs and DRPs per patient increased during the first 2 years of the SAFE program, but these values stabilized in 2003 and 2004. Inpatients and elderly patients had a higher prevalence of ADEs and DRPs than outpatients. Among 1,853 DRPs, 58.5% were categorized as requiring no intervention, 15.2% as requiring noncompliance, and 5.7% as requiring intervention; 7.4% of patients experienced at least 1 DRP that required intervention. The prevalence and seriousness of DRPs decreased over time, and there were no major differences in the prevalence of DRPs between patient groups in our study.

Risk of Reexcision After Wide Local Excision for Basal Cell Carcinoma: Analysis of the National Cancer Database. The purpose of this study was to determine whether or not skin margin reexcision and radiation therapy are associated with poorer recurrence and survival for patients with positive deep-seated (Ds) or close skin (CS) margins at the primary surgical excision of basal cell carcinoma (BCC). The authors analyzed 8,082 patients who had wide local excision (WLE) and skin margin reexcision (WR) for BCCs at the National Cancer Data Base (NCDB). Multivariate analyses were performed to identify predictors of WR including age, sex, tumor site, tumor size, tumor depth, and surgical margin status. Estimated 5-year survival rates and risk of local recurrence, regional recurrence, and distant metastasis were calculated for patients with close or Ds skin margins after the primary WLE. The authors found a weak association between WR and skin margin positive status as well as a positive association between WR and Ds or CS tumor depth. There was a statistically significant difference between the risk of local recurrence for WR with Ds or CS tumor margins and uninvolved margins ( $P = 0.0001$  and  $P = 0.04$ , respectively) and there was a statistically significant difference between the risk of regional recurrence for WR with uninvolved or positive Ds margins ( $P = 0.01$  and  $P = 0.04$ , respectively). There was no significant difference in the rate of regional recurrence and distant metastasis between the patients who had WR with positive Ds or CS margins compared with those who had WR with uninvolved or negative Ds margins. The risk of local recurrence increases in patients with positive Ds or CS tumor margins after primary WLE for BCC and WR is a treatment option for patients with positive Ds or CS margins after WLE. So, I decided to try and get back to making stuff... Anyway, I come across this idea of a personalized audio experiment using a Raspberry Pi. As usual, I wasn't willing to overlook an opportunity to experience more with electronics for myself, so I got a Raspberry Pi and threw it together. One of the items I purchased was a 3.5mm audio cable, because I was planning on using an old speaker that I found on an old radio a few years ago. After taking a quick tour of the firmware developer course for the Raspberry Pi and to
