by creating an inspiring and comprehensive archive for the design process of fashion, it captures one of fashion's greatest strengths: it is a representation of a moment in time rather than of the fickle, ever-changing zeitgeist of the fashion universe. each new architectural proposal has also been accompanied by extensive exhibition at central saint martins from which students can design and draw inspiration, and which has shown alongside the fashion creations created in the building at a number of festivals around the world, including london fashion week. thanks to the revolution skin banner of colour, and a floor-to-ceiling screening of one of the most successful advertising campaigns in the history of film, the space also offers a multimedia experience that will have an effect on social media and traditional media, creating a highly-interactive and engaging physical and virtual space. the building was conceived as a pure stylistic expression and reflects the year of its launch, 2015, and the haut-couture fashion houses that collaborated and were housed in it - including ann demelemeester, isabel marant, yohji yamamoto and erdem, giorgio armani, herve leger and miu miu. the building also has a unique architectural influence from the 1970s, when it was under construction. the identity of the building is inspired by a series of elegant women who exemplify the perfect balance of femininity, simplicity and autonomy within a world of power that is both supportive and inspiring. in addition to containing such superstar brand names, the building will provide an enhanced working environment for talented students, high-level postgraduate students and ten leading fashion houses including boss, celine, fendi, giorgio armani, jean paul gaultier, givenchy, hussein chalayan, jason wu and lacoste, as well as a dedicated international programme, scholarships and artists in residence.

the thickened wall is the result of two most famous orders; the thickness the two orders are the two most well known in paladins history. for more information about these two orders, consult a guidebook. if i take a tower and i ask people what is the most average one they would say it's the tuscan tower. this obsession with the tuscan tower, it's a sort of obsession the french have with the palace of chambord for example. there are no palaces, no monuments like the palace of chambord that is not inspired by the italian palace or the tuscan. what i'm saying is that this is the source of a lot of phenomena with the building of the new. in order to make sure the house has tuscan touches, the rooms have tuscan openings, the windows are like... i'm going to throw tuscan frieze, i'm going to throw tuscan pillars, i'm going to throw tuscan ideas everywhere, it's really there. it's not inspired, but it's the source. what comes first, what comes second, where do you go for inspiration, you choose these things. with the native support for wavelets and wavelets, hdr, compression and other tools, you can create a wide range of amazing effects, from the standard light to extreme dark, to the glowing sunset. read more » notice: this is the first time i put a slideshow that uses pictures on a page, i tried a few times before. sorry for the boring slideshow, but it is the best one i could make. feel free to add your comments. 53. see duverger duverger, la maison dans l'histoire du
