Q: SQL Server - Select All Records with Specific Column I need to select all records in a database where a specific column is between a specified range (in this case, between 3 and 8). The database schema is: Listing ID - Primary Key (Auto_Increment) City - Varchar Description - Varchar The table would contain a list of cities and descriptions. My query would be: `SELECT * FROM Listing WHERE [City] BETWEEN 3 AND 8`

A: This should work. Tested and working in my SQL2008 instance.

declare @s varchar(100) set @s = '3'
Select * from dbo.Listing where [City] >= @s and [City]

Q: CRUD with NoSQL: GridFS + MongoDB I'm building a small webapp that would need to store a lot of text data (less than 10Mb each). I was considering MongoDB, but the GridFS storage option looks more suitable to my needs. I saw that GridFS uses BSON format, which is very different to a typical SQL database. There's no way to access the data if I use the MapReduce module, right? I think that a MongoDB server would be more suitable, because GridFS requires a MongoDB slave to handle the GridFS master. Is there any way that the clients could directly access the data from the GridFS? Is there any other option to access my data (using MongoDB)? Thank you. A: You can access MongoDB data via MongoDB shell through GridFS. From the docs: The GridFS utilities allow you to perform various manipulations on records in GridFS.
